Mysterious Thaw Witness Who Has Just Arrived from Paris

She is said to be Miss Katherine Seers, former member of Florodora Girl Company. The sketch is by Archie Gunn.

MYSTERY WOMAN THAW WITNESS

Jerome Has "Find" to Tell of Evelyn Thaw's Stage Career, It Is Said—May Be a Former "Florodora" Girl.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—A mysterious and beautiful young woman who will be put on the witness stand by District Attorney Jerome, it is said, in the trial of Harry K. Thaw for the killing of Stanford White, has attracted much attention at the Criminal Courts Building during the past few days.

It is said that the young woman is Katherine Seers, who at one time appeared on the stage in the same company with Evelyn Nesbit. The young woman herself refused to tell who she is or explain her interest in the trial. According to the stories going the rounds, Miss Seers will be pitted against the beautiful wife of young Thaw, and she will be able to throw some new light on Evelyn's stage career.

The young woman came from Paris. On the steamer she was listed as Marie Roche Shakespeare. Mr. Jerome declined to say whether the young woman was his witness or not.

Evelyn Thaw, it became known today, keeps a diary wherein she confides to Harry Lehr in the Tombs in code that nothing that she may do in any way to the detriment of Thaw's husband's fight for life and liberty.

Young Mr. Thaw made this statement to-day: "No, no, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will not, I am sure, avenge herself in any way for the failure of European attempts to have me divorced on many counts. The breach between her and the other women members of the Thaw family because of reports made by detectives employed by my mother during the past year.

The San Francisco dispatch said that young Mr. Thaw attended an income dinner on the Thaw yacht a week. Evelyn Thaw characterized this as ridiculous.

This story is denied by those who attended the dinner, and the meeting when court reporters say the failure of European attempts to have Thaw declared insane was a breach between her and the other women members of the Thaw family because of reports made by detectives employed during the past year.

"As for the report that I am receiving $1,000 a week, it is absolutely false. If it were so I would not be living in the simple style that I am maintaining here. I have no arrangements with the Thaw family as regards money and never have had.

"It's deeply interesting and I expect to spare time in reading it or any work on political economy I can obtain. I enjoy such books far better than any light fiction."

Entire East Swept by Furious Blizzard

BOSTON IN STORM'S GRIP

The entire eastern section of the United States is being swept by a blizzard which began at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The report of the official weather man said that between three and four inches of snow had fallen in Boston up to 2 o'clock this morning.

Reports from points nearly all of Greater Boston were received all day.

The wind in the city attained a velocity of thirty miles an hour, while in the harbor and along the coast down to Highland Light it was blowing between sixty and seventy miles an hour.

According to the local weather expert the blizzard is the result of the merging of a storm which came from the Great Lakes with one that began forming on the Atlantic coast last night. The blizzard is raging as furiously in northern Canada as it is in New England.

The Weather Bureau predicts a cold wave to-night and that the weather in Boston late to-night and to-morrow will be fair.

The official temperatures during the day were as follows: 6 a. m., 20 degrees; 7 a. m., 17 degrees; 8 a. m., 16 degrees; 9 a. m., 18 degrees. From 10 a. m. until 1 p. m. the thermometer remained at 19 degrees.

The few vessels which came into Boston Harbor this morning report furious weather in Massachusetts Bay, but up to noon Boston had not heard of any disasters as yet by land.

New York probably suffered more from the blizzard than any other city on the Atlantic Coast. Its street car lines and elevated railway were tied up and thousands of its poor, without coal or food, flocked to the headquarters of the various charitable organizations for aid.

Mail Trains Very Late.

The storm has not yet seriously affected the railroads entering Boston, but street railway service between Boston and the numerous suburban towns to the north and south was partially paralyzed this morning. Few of the rail lines were able to maintain their schedules, and many of them in Everett and Malden had to crawl to and from the Sullivan square terminal behind snow ploughs.

Most of the New York mail trains were from an hour to two hours late, but the postal authorities believed that conditions would improve during the day.

By 2 o'clock this afternoon there were 1,000 men at work clearing the streets of snow.

"We will give work to all able-bodied men who will apply," Acting Superintendent of Streets James H. Sullivan told a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter at noon.

In the down-town district the street cleaning department had twenty-five teams at work this afternoon.

Laborers were warned early yesterday of the coming blizzard, and very few persons went to sea to-day.

The only arrivals were overdue fishing vessels.

The steamer Gloucester, reported in the Gloucester Eastern Steamship Company's fleet, and the Portland steamer Governor Dingley, reported overdue, arrived in Boston this morning.

The steamer Bay State, which left Boston for Portland, has not been heard from since she left the city last night, while the Portland steamer Governor Dingley, reported overdue, arrived in Boston

FIGHT PORTLAND FIRE IN BLIZZARD; LOSS IS $600,000

CITY HALL BUILDING DESTROYED; CHURCH DAMAGED; 2,000 AT DANCE ESCAPE.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 24.—Portland's on the third or attic floor, about 2.15 a. City Hall was destroyed today by fire in which started at 2.15 and threatened for the a time to wipe out the entire business portion of the city. The flames spread to the Chestnut Street Methodist Episcopal Church, directly in the rear of City Hall, but the fire is under control.

The loss on the City Hall, which could when built, $400,000 to the city and county, is estimated with building, paintings and valuable papers, at $600,000. The Methodist church, which is a fine brick gothic structure, is valued at $40,000.

The damage to the church will be some $5,000.

While the fire was raging in the city Hall and capitol five were carried in houses in Slasom street, West End and Pleasant street.

Help was rushed here, while the fire was threatening the whole city, from Biddeford, Saco, Lewiston, Gardiner and Bath.

Lose County Records.

The city records were saved from the burning building, but county records of Cumberland county, dating back for just years, were all lost.

The loss on valuable paintings alone, which were kept in the different rooms of the city building, is reported at more than $100,000. City clerk Coombs says that the insurance carried on the City Hall is not more than $400,000.

Several times, fanned into a fierce north east wind, the United States Congo offices from sparks, which flew from the burning City Hall.

It was a struggle for hours with the elements of wind and flame, each with the hunger for the destruction of the city. This is the coldest night of the winter, and the water which is being poured upon the church and fire apparatus "freezes as fast as it falls. The mercury has more than once been at zero during the day.

Fire Chief M. S. Eldredge has not slept, but, having been struck by a heavy piece of hose pipe, which was thrown by the wind, knocking him down. Drifting cinders have been numerous.

Two thousand people, attending a dance given by the Pythians in the second story of the city Hall, had a narrow escape. They were strolled by the escapes of the officials in charge of the hall, and no lives were lost in safety. So much time there, however, that the supper which the dancers made their escape in full lodge regalia.

Started in Electrician's Room.

The fire started in the big operating room of City Electrician George W. Hardison, on the third or attic floor, about 2.15 a. m. Some one entering the electrical system of the city is concluded from this office, and public fire alarm could be rung until fire engines had been called into requisition, and it was not until 3.20 o'clock, an hour later, that three alarms were sent in on the big fire whistle at the power station. Following this the crowds began to gather, until at 4.30 o'clock every street and driveway leading to City Hall square was choked with humanity.

At 4.05 o'clock the top of the enormous granite dome fell in a terrific crash into Congress street, on which the hall faces, and thirty firemen and a score of police men and citizens narrowly escaped death when the crash from the crowd. "Look going" gone warning.

The dome, in its crash, brought down a tangle of live wires directly in the centre of City Hall square, and these kept the firemen at bay for some time.

City Hall was partially destroyed in the fire of 1866, but nearly every part of it had to be rebuilt.

It was rebuilt on the main or second floor are offices of the Mayor, city clerk, city messenger, Board of Aldermen, Board of Aldermen chamber, City Council chambers, city solicitor, superintendent of schools, city treasurer, position officer, milk inspector, police division, Board of Health, city auditor and many smaller municipal offices.

While on the same floor in what is called the rounding wing of the building were the offices of the county commissioners, treasurer, register of deeds, probate and other county offices. On the basement floor were police headquarters, the city jail, the municipal court room and several minor offices. On the second floor the big convention and reception hall, a small reception hall, the office of commissioner of public works. On the top floor the office and plant of the city electrician, controlling the fire alarm and police patrols systems of the entire city.

Newspaper Men Discovered Fire.

The fire was discovered at 2.18 a. m. by Francis L. Littlefield, city editor of the Portland Eastern Argus, and John J. A. Mahoney, a reporter on the same paper, who were walking up Exchange street and saw the front of the building.

They saw the flames in the window of the city electrician's room, and running to the nearest fire alarm box, on Exchange street, pulled the still alarm and telephoned fire chief Eldredge.

The Chestnut Street church and the big brick of the Portland Fuel Company were among the buildings in danger, the latter having caught fire several times, only to be extinguished. The high wind bore sparks for great distances and many times were constantly starting here and there, but watchers succeeded in quenching them as fast as they started.

Started in Electrician's Room.

The fire started in the big operating room of City Electrician George W. Hardison, on the third floor.

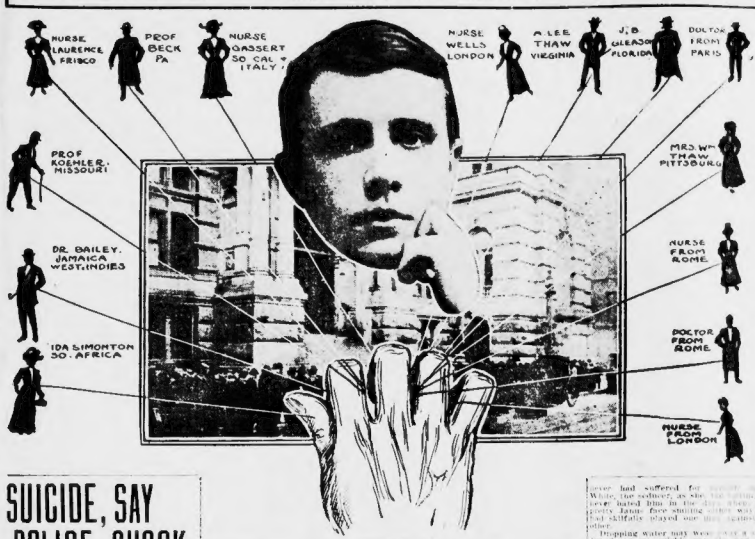
WORLD DRAWN ON FOR THAW WITNESSES

From all directions witnesses are being drawn to New York to tell the jury of Harry Thaw's eccentric acts. Five witnesses are on the Steamship Adriatic, now due—three physicians from London, Paris and Rome and two nurses. A mysterious young woman with a little boy came from Europe on the Moltke. She says she is Mrs. Marion Roche Shakespeare of Paris. She is believed, however, to be Kath-erine Sears, a member of the chorus in which Evelyn Thaw played before she became Harry Thaw's wife.



SUICIDE, SAY POLICE; SHOCK, SAY FAMILY

Mystery in Death of Well-Known Resident of Dorchester District.

Deep mystery surrounds the death of William D. Shortwell, for forty years to the employe of Thorpe & Martin, the Frank lin street stationers, who is reported by the police to have committed suicide by shooting himself in his home at No. 23 Nottingham street, Dorchester.

The death of Shortwell took place yesterday afternoon. The police learned of it from a newspaper reporter at 10 a. m. to day. The wife and daughter of the dead man flatly declare he died of cerebral hemorrhage following a shock induced by grippe.

But the report on the case made to Captain Hunt at Dorchester police station by Patrolman Seavey to-day is as follows:

Shot Himself in Head.

"At 5 p. m. yesterday William D. Shortwell, married and living at No. 23 Nottingham street, suffe. I. shot himself back of the right ear. Dr. A. T. Davison was called and the body was given in charge of Undertaker James Y. Tobin. Medical Examiner McGrath was notified."

Patrolman Seavey obtained this information from Undertaker Tobin. Tobin closed up on the case when the reporters went at him, but Patrolman Seavey said Tobin told him what he reported, and also told him that Shortwell had been suffering from that form of suicidal melancholy that sometimes follows severe attacks of grippe.

Dr. A. T. Davison, the family physician said to-day:

"Mr. Shortwell's mind was affected by grippe. He committed suicide by shooting."

Denies Suicide Story.

Mrs. Blanche A. Long of No. 6 Union street, daughter of Shortwell, was seen at her home.

"Father died of cerebral hemorrhage," she said.

"They say there is a bullet hole back of his right ear," she was told.

"I don't know anything about that," she replied.

"Did your father kill himself," she was asked direct.

"No, of course not," was the immediate response.

Mrs. Shortwell was next seen.

"Did Mr. Shortwell commit suicide by shooting himself?" she was asked.

"No," she replied; "he died of cerebral hemorrhage. He had had grippe, which brought on a shock."

Well-known Mason.

Mr. Shortwell was fifty-five years old He had lived in Dorchester fifteen years and was widely known in that section. He was an Odd ellow and a Mason. Mrs. Long, his daughter, is the wife of William A. Long, the Dorchester real estate dealer.

JAIL WOMAN AS SHOPLIFTER

Three young women, who the police say the shoplifters and who have evaded the detectives for a long time, were in the Police Court to-day charged with stealing sharals, shoes and articles in several of the big department stores.

Pearl Tatlan, who is about twenty-two years of age and who refused to give her address, was given a three-months' sentence, while Ida Fitzgerald, twenty-eight, and May Mcdonald, twenty-two, had their cases continued for investigation.

MINARD'S LINIMENT

WHO DOUBTS THAW'S INSANITY NOW, QUERIES CLARA MORRIS

By Clara Morris.

I WONDER if there really is any one left who doubts the insanity of Mr. Thaw after knowing what his lawyers was and how uncertain was his mental balance when, egotistical and erratic and too lovingly gilded for his own good, he flung himself into the whirlpool life of the prison we seek to?

As his affections were strong and deep and true, the period of love for him was bound to be in some way a time of stress and storm. Was it certain in a blinding clash at first sight of Evelyn Nesbit, who had already, through force of cruel circumstances, become a worshipper of the golden calf.

Finding himself but one in a train of favored lovers, he at least tried to aid her at a time of sickness, and then most contradictory lovers disappear. His love seemed not of the temporary, incidental character, he wanted to protect her from herself, he wanted to marry her.

The marriage state did not greatly appeal to the girl as a condition of unalloyed delight. She decided upon a real-estate deal that would be so intensely dramatic as to put an end to marriage talk, yet keep the generous lover still devoted and examplefic.

She told of the horrible crime committed against her and heard her lover's cries of anguish, rage and pity. But love would not down, affection stood firm—still would he marry her.

Did Not Forgive in a Normal Way.

Now all the world knows that the puzzled man who wishes to do a difficult, or generally condemned thing, such as the forgiving of a woman's unworthy past, will not live word loads and with a quick hard kiss drop the matter and bury it deep into an depths of silence. If he can't do that largely, at least he can keep the rest of it inside never wake he does.

But Thaw's love was loaded. His heart not locked talked of it constantly, nearly spoke the words night and night. And the poor little doomed thing had to hear, made like a toast to intensely, and no matter how much love and pity she will fail to decare to him.

Then the first expressions of a real love is the tender impulse to guard it from all the shadows of life and sorrow, all pain, anxiety or suffering, as Evelyn's lover persistently called it.

Now, Mrs. Thaw's sworn evidence was that Harry could not bear the slightest allusion to Mr. White's name without suffering from a fit that at once became pale-faced and restless and greatly excited, etc. She declared that she feared her husband's relations lovers disappear. His love seemed not of the temporary, incidental character, he wanted to protect her from herself, he wanted to marry her.

SCHLATTER MAKES NEW PREDICTIONS

"The Sleeper" Comes to Boston With His Ideas of the Future.

NO TROUBLE IN SIGHT

PERTINENT PROPHECIES MADE BY "SCHLATTER"

Reign of prosperity ahead for Boston.

We will get a little snow in February.

No chance of war with Japan. Japs can't afford it.

Harry K. Thaw will not be punished but he will not be executed.

No industrial revolution coming for America.

No particular disaster scheduled for Boston.

Gladys Vanderbilt will not be happy with Count Szechenyi.

Boston & Maine merger will never come to pass.

Schlatter, the self-styled "divine healer and prophet," whose sobriquet of "Schlatter" means "The Sleeper," bolted his name to-day by giving the BOSTON AMERICAN a set of prophecies that show he is wide awake and fully up-to-date.

Here are a few:

Taft will be elected President next Fall. There is a reign of prosperity in sight for Boston, now that the city has "a good, Christian Mayor, who is discharging super fluous men." There will be a little real snow about Boston in February. We will have no war with Japan. Schlatter says the Japs will need fifteen years to pay off the debt incurred by the Russian war. Harry K. Thaw will never be executed, though he will be punished some way. "There never was a millionaire executed in this country, anyhow," says Schlatter.

"Nothing Doing" for the Merger.

The Boston & Maine merger will never be accomplished. Gladys Vanderbilt's marriage to Count Laszio Szechenyi will not be a happy one, for she merely exchanged gold for a title.

And, finally, there will be no big wreck, earthquake or other grave disaster in store for Boston for the immediate future.

Schlatter was nicknamed "der Schlafer," or "The Sleeper," in a little German village (Ludwigsdorf) on account of his trances. His real name is the Rev. Charles McLean. He uses neither Doctor nor Osborne. He is unmarried.

"I am sixty-four years old," he says, "and I never was sick in my life. See my cheek, for instance," pointing to one of his own, and "the sleeper flushed a set of rosies that were big and strong and white.

Has a Gigantic Claim.

Schlatter is known all over the world and has been all over it, too, for that matter. He claims to have healed seven millions of sick and to have raised seven from the dead. He says he does this by faith in God.

Schlatter has not been in Boston to heal for ten years. He has just come from a tour of the smaller New England cities. He will be here three weeks. In the course of his prophecies of his declaration of faith he modestly slips in the statement that he will preach Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Washington Hall, No. 955 Washington street. The sick will be healed by faith in God, also a collection will be taken. On weekdays Mr. Sleeper's office will be located at No. 555 Tremont street.

If you see a tall, lank man, plainly dressed, with an unusually long grayish beard and an unusually large pair of eyes about town you may well guess he is Schlatter.

Everybody made love to old Col Snell; how a trunk full of old love letters found in the dead millionaire's attic stirke terror to the hearts of wives, daughters and young brides. See next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

SWIFT'S "ARMY" ORDERED FROM STATE HOUSE

"This is no place for you," was Sergeant-at-Arms Remington's declaration to Morrison [illegible] when he took his "army" of unemployed, 500 strong, to the State House to demand work. "Your work go to the State Free Employment Bureau," said Remington. "If you need aid go to the Boston street home." Two hundred of them later filed applications for work at the employment bureau, but were told there were not jobs for 200. In the picture, Swift, the man with the [illegible] is listening to Remington in front of the State House.

LET THE RICH AID THE IDLE, SAYS SWIFT

Leader of Boston's Unemployed Outlines Campaign for Industrial Revolution.

General Morrison I. Swift, leader of Boston's unemployed, is to begin in this city a campaign for an industrial revolution, and is going to ask rich business men, who have control of profitable capital, to aid him and the idle workingmen in making it possible for all who seek work to get it.

To the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day he made a statement about his plans and the treatment received at the State House by those who went there to see Governor Guild. Mr. Swift said:

"I propose to personally see rich men in Boston and ask them to start the men unemployed, not as charities, but as friends, and take steps to develop a plan whereby men, who want employment and cannot get it, shall get to work. The first step is to provide immediate employment. The second step is to do something which will permanently settle the industrial question so that there will be no more enforced idleness for those who want to work.

Demands Work for All.

"I want the rich to take hold of this with us because they are trained in business and have got possession of a title to all productive property. They claim to love all the orphans and to know all about Indigence and how to do things. Here is something they can do for the good of mankind and the benefit of humanity. We will give them a chance to do it.

"We will say to them, 'If you know all about business and getting dollars, a plan by which there shall be a public system of industries which will be for the good of all the whole this instead of the present private system, which is good for the few all the time and bad for the many most of the time. We want you to pass over to the people the title of productive capital which you falsely claim as yours.

"We be unemployed, are willing to unite with you in bringing about this desired industrial change. We are ready to cooperate in a friendly way. We are seeking a peaceful solution of a great problem and we seek a solution based upon human rights.

"But there can be no compromise. We will not accept any compromise. The wrong is that honest, industrious men can not get work to pay for their food, clothing and shelter. The right is that every man who is willing to work should have work at fair pay all the time. We stand upon the principle that every man has absolute right to have work.

Will Visit the Rich.

"I intend to personally see some of the rich men in Boston and lay this matter before them. Boston was the cradle of the 1776 Revolution and the cradle of the anti-slavery revolution. I intend to ask the rich Bostonians to lead in an industrial revolution.

"I do not know how many unemployed men there are in Boston now, but I believe there are at least 50,000."

When asked if the cold wave would not give temporary employment to many of them, Mr. Swift said:

"I am of the opinion that most of the unemployed have not work to enable them to work in the snow, and most of them have starved too long to be exposed to rigorous Winter weather and hard labor.

He has issued in the form of "Yard II" a statement headed, "To the Boston Rich."

After the statement, "We want our rightful share of wealth," he asks the wealthy to call a "Rich Men's Mass Meeting," and to command the Legislature and the Aldermen to provide work.

Seeks Peaceable Adjustment.

"We desire," the card states, "a friendly and peaceable adjustment of the industrial question. We invite you to meet us half-way and with us to arrange a plan for passing over the title of your productive capital mills, railroads, ships, etc.) for the formation of a general stock company with all the people equal and indissoluble proprietors."

HORSE'S KICK FATAL.

VANDERBILTS DIVIDED OVER ROYAL BRIDAL

Consuelo and Alfred Decline to Officiate as Family's Head at Ceremony.

REGINALD ASSUMES HONOR

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Reggie Vanderbilt, the youngest son instead of the eldest, will take the honorary position of head of the family Monday at noon and give away his sister, Gladys, in marriage to Count Laszo Szechenyi.

It has just become known that this would be the case. Cornelius, it was said, had declined the honor, giving as a reason the illness of his motherin-law, Mrs. Wilson.

Alfred, the only eldest brother, was displayed as the other head of interests to be chosen and the marriage to Count Szechenyi and his wife are in the Adirondacks, so having decided not to take that part save his gift, it concluded that the honor fell to Reginald and among the guests now making his home at the Vanderbilt house for a few days considerable importance is prospective members of the family solidarity.

And when a rehearsal of the ceremony was gone through with, it may be added his desire to have Alfred give away the bride, at which she will be married.

Treated as Head of Family

He took part in a dinner at which only the bridal party was present, to be an open secret in society that since last Summer his mother has treated him (though he is the youngest of the three brothers) as the male head of the Vanderbilt line.

The rehearsal indicated that the ceremony of Monday will be much more elaborate than the usual "mixed marriage" of the Roman Catholic Church is allowed to be.

It was the fifth time within the past week that the principal participants in the ceremony have conferred and talked over the ceremony.

Four times Mrs. Vanderbilt, the Count and Miss Gladys visited St. Patrick's Cathedral, and had its vergers go over and over its entire repertoire of wedding marches until Mrs. Vanderbilt heard one that pleased her.

Bridal Party Dinner.

Finally she told Monsignor Lavelle, who will marry the young couple, that Gaul's wedding march from the oratorio of "Ruth" seemed appropriate, and she had him notify James T. Ingrey, the musical director, and organist to select a male quartette and twenty-five boy choristers to render the march.

The bridal luncheon to her attendants followed the rehearsal, being came the bridal party dinner. Those present were Reginald Vanderbilt, the Count, Miss Vanderbilt, Miss Twombly and Miss Whitney.

The presents which have arrived already at the Vanderbilt house are said to be worth more than $1000,000. They will be on exhibition from noon on in the big ballroom, with four detectives watching them day and night, while other guards on the outside of the house look out for possible intruders.

EVERETT BOY LOST.

The police of Everett and vicinity are on the lookout for John Mackay, Jr., aged fifteen, of No. 10 Washington street, Everett, who has been missing from his home since the afternoon of December 30.

DYSPEPSIA-PROOF

How Any Meal Can Be Thoroughly Enjoyed by Any Stomach.

Men, as a rule, are first discovered by their enemies. Their antagonists turn on the searchlight, and the proof of merit will lie in being able to stand the flash.

It was only in this way that Mr. White ever knew that dyspepsia was one of Mr. Black's worst enemies. Sitting face to face at a two-for-four table, he handed his afflicted friend the bill of fare:

Oyster Cocktail.
Stuffed Olives.
Boston Clam Chowder.
Strained Gumbo.
Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms.
Roast Beef Hash.
Boiled Ox Tongue with Sauerkraut.
Lobster a la Newburg.
Baked Pork and Beans.
Combination Crab Salad.
Hot Mince Pie.
Pineapple Fritters.

Mr. White ordered a "little of each." Mr. Dyspepsia Black ordered crackers and a glass of milk. "Had such a big breakfast this morning," he said, "that I'll just take a little to keep you company." But Mr. White could not be deceived. "I am afraid you can't stand this pleasant Mr. Black. Why don't you say you have dyspepsia and be done with it? You'd always have that hungry look, anyhow, as long as you have dyspepsia. Now listen. My stomach was in just as bad condition as yours is one time, but now I can eat anything, at any time. For instance, this clam chowder or sirloin steak, or even the lobster would be just as welcome to my stomach as your crackers and milk. You don't realize how this dyspepsia business is robbing you of your health, your energy and ability to think quickly. I can't help notice it. You haven't the cheer and sprightliness you had three months ago. Now I'll tell you what to do." And thereupon the cheerful Mr. White took a vial from his pocket and extracted a wee tablet. "There, there is a tablet that contains an ingredient, one grain of which digests 3,000 grains of food. For even the worst dyspeptic it's the only thing that really gives relief. The moment it reaches the stomach of nearly all the work it has to do digests everything in the stomach and puts the entire article into a condition to be assimilated. I can't get along without them. They are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and you can get them anywhere on earth for 50c a package."

Yes, it is true, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets positively cure heartburn, nausea, indigestion, dyspepsia of the worst type, sour stomach, bloaty feelings and all sensations dead irritation, and frazzled and invigorate the stomach. They cheer you up, and make you get all the good there is in your food. You will forget you ever had a stomach to worry you.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Miss Quinlan Who Was Robbed While Praying in Church

SCORES HURT BY POLICE IN BERLIN RIOT

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—Socialist and labor leaders in the Reichstag are preaching furiously against the brutality of the police in breaking up recent demonstrations of unemployed and the suffrage agitation.

Scenes were unprecedented, it is charged, in clubs, fists and using knives. Several sufferers are in hospitals as a result from cuts and stabs by pocket knives.

Police officials reply that they acted with great moderation, but were compelled to weather the crowds in self defense.

There seems to be a discontent among unemployed workmen, and disorders in the streets again daily, and fresh violence is feared.

New York's new bow-wow police men. It costs the city only five cents 1 day for each of these fierce patrolmen—and they are muzzled just at present, so that they cannot eat while on duty, nor be poisoned, nor bite. See next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

LEWISTON ARMORY THEFT PROBE NOW ON

LEWISTON, Me., Jan. 24.—Inspector General Charles Davis of Augusta, assisted by Detective E. L. Mills of Lewiston, is in the city conducting a secret investigation into the reported larceny of bayonet, cups, coats and rifles from the local armory, valued at between $300 and $500.

The property of all of the companies is being carefully examined for some trace of the stolen goods. Sensational developments are expected.

Abandoned Newport Baby Gets Layette From Boston Woman

The wealthy women at Newport and Boston have become interested in "Little Tonsewand," the abandoned baby now at the Children's Home in Newport, and Miss Fanny Foster, a wealthy resident of the Fenway and owner of the Roberware at Newport, has presently given the little waif a beautiful and complete layette.

WALLS FALL IN FIRE; KILL 5 IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Jan. 24.—Five firemen killed, Chief Horton is probably dying and a score of others are laid up with injuries as a result of falling walls at a fire early to-day in E. H. Read & Son Company's printing place, Nos. 407 and 411 East Saratoga street, near Holliday, which extended to the brass foundry of E. Regis & Sons on Holliday street and the machine shops of William Hollingsworth, No. 227 North Holliday street. The fire burned fiercely and soon the entire section was a mass of flames.

The walls suddenly collapsed and the crowd were caught under the falling debris.

The bodies of Lieutenant Frederick Hay and James Burrows, Angus Schriver and Josh Sliesd were taken from beneath the crushing wall. Chief Horton's skull is said to have been fractured, and he is injured internally.

SLEUTHS WORK ON THEFT FROM SOCIETY WOMAN

Capture Hub Family Valuables in Dawn Raid on Apartments in New York.

The story of the mysterious robbery in the Plaza Hotel, of New York, on the night of the Black Ball society leader, lost a jeweled vanity box and contents worth over $5000 has just been told for the first time by H. Staples Potter on his return to this city.

Owing to Mrs. Potter's custom of depositing her gems in the hotel safe, the smooth thieves failed to get several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds and other few. But—as Lucy Lawn—but the box out of the gems at the time is what puzzles the Potters and the hotel people. Every room is under an exhibit window of the apartment.

Mrs. Potter always places her jewels, containing her jewelry, in the safe of a drawer in the room, and she says she said Mr. Potter to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter today. "So the night she lost her jewels we were in a hurry to attend the opera, and her wife left, her dressing room in great haste.

Found Doors Barricaded

She was in some doubt as to whether she would leave her vanity box and all its attachments on her dressing table or not. She finally left it on the dressing table and went down stairs to dinner, leaving the jewel box with the hotel clerk as usual.

When we came upstairs after a stay per with friends, we found the door to our to our suite barricaded from inside so that we had to call the chambermaid to our assistance. She opened the door to our sleeping room, and we entered. Hurried to the parlor in that way.

The room was in great confusion the windows of the parlor were wide open, clothing was tossed about the room and some of the furniture had been piled against the door. We were from every suite and the roof of a residential section next to the hotel was only four feet below our parlor window. On the roof was a ladder. The thieves must have entered in that manner.

Detectives on Case

"The vanity box and its attachments and some of my wife's wearing apparel, such as furs, etc., had been missed. I should place the value of the articles lost at over $5000. The New York police have not been notified, as the case is in the hands of well-known detectives in this case when we left New York.

800 DANCE AT GRAY'S ANNUAL

E. E. Gray's clerks may be a bit weary today, but the ball was good enough to pay for it.

The clerks and other employes of concern are organized the name of the E. Gray Company Employes' Mutual Benefit Association and last night the fellows had their third annual ball at Paul Revere Hall, Mechanics Building.

Some hundred couples attended, making the financial, as well as the social success of the gathering. Dancing was interrupted occasionally and all the friends and wives of well-known members were entertained.

E. S. Dorgan as floor director was assisted by H. E. Peck, and the aids were: Sergeant, C. Harding; A. Wyer, C. H. Lane, H. Carpenter, T. White, H. Higgins, J. Hoffman, H. Longmire, A. M. Sullivan, A. C. Adams, Miss M. Stevens, Miss A. L. Berry, Miss M. B. O'Brien, Miss N. L. Cooney, Miss L. E. Shipley, Miss E. Reynolds, Miss B. A. Davis, Miss F. A. Sutton, Miss M. A. Scanlon.

BIRTH RECORDS FAULTY.

Claiming that more than 20 per cent. of the births of Massachusetts are lacking in the records are incorrect, and that under the present arrangement the records are valueless, and are not kept with every case children are recorded as legitimate, which is not the case, Dr. Fitz appeared before the Legislative Committee on Public Health today and urged the necessity of physicians to keep an individual record of all births that they attend.

TO RAISE SALARIES.

It is understood Postmaster Edward C. Mitchell has, during his visit in Washington, had several conferences with Congressmen, and that the annual employees of Boston will be given a material increase in salaries. The chief criticism is to grade the salaries with greater regard to the amount of business done in each office than has been exercised here before.

The EDISON PHONOGRAPH

ONE of the greatest things Mr. Edison has done is to produce in his Phonograph an entertainer which is as much at home in the cottage as in the palace, which is just as good at rendering the latest popular song or a lively waltz as it is in giving grand opera. It is the popular entertainer in every sense of the word, and its price, either cash down or on the weekly payment plan, brings it within reach of all.

Hear it at your nearest dealer's or write to us today for illustrated booklet about it.

February Records Out Today

THE way to get pleasure out of an Edison Phonograph is to keep on using it. The Phonograph is new every time you put a new Record in it. New Records are issued every month. All the great popular hits, vocal and instrumental, and a certain amount of classical music that never grows old, are issued every month in Edison Gold Moulded Records. Here is the list for February. Read it over, check off what you like, and as soon as you can get to his store ask your dealer to let you hear them.

LAWYER LAUTERBACH AND WIFE AGREE TO SEPARATE

GENERAL DIFFERENCE OVER FAMILY MATTERS CAUSE OF PARTING, SHE ANNOUNCES.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Edward Lauterbach, wife of the noted lawyer and politician, announced today that her husband and herself have agreed to separate and that she has issued the proclamation of the details of a separate agreement in the minds of Joseph H. Choate.

She is now living at the Hotel Savoy, while he has taken up his quarters at the Republican club. Mrs. Lauterbach stated that their most cherished hope still was their father's side, while their mother is still trying to organize a home.

A general difference over family matters is declared to be the cause of the separation.

Kept Parting Secret.

Mr. Lauterbach's friends were surprised when he appeared at the Republican club a short time ago and took apartments.

Friends of Mrs. Lauterbach, too, are surprised also to learn that Mr. Lauterbach had left the family home in the Savoy. By Mrs. Lauterbach they were told she intended to put an announcement would be made of it for some time.

Learning that the matter of the case had become public property, Mrs. Lauterbach told of the troubles that have arisen between her and her husband.

Another in Case.

"My troubles date back for several years," she said, "and in that time I have suffered a great deal. But lately my lot has become greater than I could bear in silence.

"Mr. Lauterbach left our home in the Hotel Savoy a month ago in a very sudden manner. He accused me of being a person who I had learned had deceived me, the break that occurred between Mr. Lauterbach and me, and with a suggestion that his departure would be final as he went out. Since that time he has not been to see me.

"Times without number during the last ten years I have forgiven Mr. Lauterbach things which many wives less patient would not have overlooked, and I did because of my devotion to him, and because I hated the thought of taking any step which would in any way cause humiliation to him or affect the ambitions of his children. One of the things which has contributed to the differences between Mr. Lauterbach and myself has been his extravagant indulgence of his daughters. He has encouraged them in extravagance, and has given to them large sums of money to do with as they pleased, at the same time refusing them not to confide the fact to me. We have discussed the matter many times, but have never been able to reconcile our views regarding it.

Exaggerated, Says He.

Mr. Lauterbach expressed astonishment when a reporter spoke to him about the case.

"There have been reports for the last few years," he said, with emphasis, "that there have been differences between Mrs. Lauterbach and myself, but they have always been greatly exaggerated. The situation now are more grossly exaggerated than any of those which have preceding them. There is nothing in them. There is nothing further to be said on this matter at all. See Mrs. Lauterbach and you who say has to say about it."

Asked if there has been no disagreement at all between his wife and himself Mr. Lauterbach said: "There may have been some little disagreement, but there is no talk of divorce or anything like that."

Noted Railroad Lawyer.

Mr. Lauterbach is not only a shrewd trial lawyer with accurate knowledge of the profession, but has also had great success as a railroad lawyer. He was prominent in the reorganization of the Philadelphia and Reading Company, and brought about the consolidation of the Union and Brooklyn Elevated roads. He was attorney for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and he secured the charter for the East River Bridge Company.

Mr. Lauterbach was a member of the constitutional convention in June, 1901. He is deeply interested in educational and charitable matters and is vice-president of the college of the City of New York.

He is an active and aggressive Republican in politics, and has represented the State of New York at St. Louis, in June, 1896, as a delegate-at-large to the national convention.

Mr. Lauterbach belongs to many clubs, and is now a director in and counsel for the Third Avenue Railroad Company of New York. He is also connected with the Postal Telegraph and Southern Railway Company.

Legislation secured by Mr. Lauterbach's efforts resulted in the removal of all poles and wires from the streets of New York city.

BRANDEIS HITS MERGER PLAN AT BANQUET

The proposed merger of the Boston & Maine road with the New Haven line was discussed at the dinner of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange in Young's Hotel, which was attended by many of the most distinguished citizens of this State.

Colonel Albert Clarke, secretary of the Home Market Club, spoke in favor of the merger, but stated at the outset that he had not been retained by either of the railroads. He said he favored the merger "on broad general principles." He did not think it would result in making Boston a way station.

Louis D. Brandeis, who has made an exhaustive study of the merger question, spoke against letting the Boston line, which is controlled by Standard Oil interests, decide on the Boston & Maine, thus putting New England at the mercy of a great transportation monopoly. Mr. Brandeis quoted the laws of Massachusetts that no railroad company can purchase control and stock of railways without the express authority of the legislature, and Governor Guild's message upon the merger.

"The fundamental objection is monopoly," he said. "If these two railroads, New York, New Haven & Hartford and Boston & Maine, are allowed to merge, it means the merging of all the railroads in New England.

Struggle for Power.

"Shall all transportation be vested in one corporation? There is now taken the independent water line to New York. The Harvard and Yale have vanished just as the New Haven road has taken every line of railroad. It is a grasping, relentless monopoly. It is the same struggle for absolute power on the one hand and liberty on the other.

"This question of monopoly will always be with us, will never be antiquated. The struggle against monopoly will never be less eager than to-day.

"Think what it means to put the transportation system of six States into one board of directors, how much the present road does, how little the board of directors as a body do.

"This great proposed absorption was not known to the stockholders.

"Government ownership that only will be far escape from the proposed merger."

Tuttle Makes Plea.

President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine pleaded for a change in the State laws which restricted, he said, railroads and other public service companies in making improvements. He said the laws ought to give such corporations the chance to make it as profitable for stockholders to invest more money in the roads as to put it in savings banks or bonds of the municipalities.

"We do not want," said President Tuttle, "to water stocks. We do not want to give stockholders undue profits, but if we must improve the properties you need to use we must have the power to say to invite the stockholders to take further interest in these properties at reasonable rates of return which will warrant their taking the risk."

Frederick G. Woodruff, president of the Real Estate Exchange, presided at the dinner.

PASSENGERS SAVED AT SEA

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Jan. 24.—The lifeboat Gouwzee arrived today at the dock of Holland with the missing passengers of the steamer Amsterdam, who disappeared in a small boat following the collision yesterday of the Amsterdam with the British steamer Axminster. The small boat was picked up far off the coast.

After the collision the Amsterdam's passengers were removed to the Axminster. The small boat went astray while this was being done and considerable fear was felt for the passengers.

MAN OF 80 IS LOST ALL NIGHT IN SNOWSTORM

Patrick Keaney, Rob Wellesley Man, Spent Seven Hours by Party of 200.

HOPE OF HIS RECOVERY

After a search of seven hours, during which time they were severely buffeted in the blinding snowstorm, one hundred residents of Wellesley, Mass., on Wednesday night found Patrick Keaney, aged eighty, who disappeared from his home the last night in a shed in Needham, where he had sought shelter instead of having walked nearer.

Shortly before midnight, Keaney was found in the shed by Edward Wellington Bacon of the Wellesley Hills district. At his home without the knowledge of the family, Keaney had left the house and become known to one of his sons who recalled their family's long story of the Wellesley settlers.

Issues General Alarm.

He, in turn, issued a general alarm, and police drivers and citizens responded in large numbers.

By means of searchlights in the snow the horse with harness but broken was found in the shed, and Keaney was found in the tall mill they erected Wellesley Centre.

Then they carried him to the house and into parties of 25 to 50 each, following four overland routes, and the last party to leave one party continued in the direction of Needham.

In the outskirts of the city the four parties were reunited, and the search ended. After walking a hundred miles the searchers stumbled against Keaney, who was being assisted homeward by a party of citizens.

Carried to His Home.

Bystanders were invited and the aged, feeble and ill-clad unfortunate, confused, was removed to his home.

Although he is suffering from the effects of the exposure the physicians who are attending him have hopes for his recovery.

CAMBRIDGE HOMES LOOTED IN BROAD DAY

Breaks in Two Residences in Fashionable District Puzzle the Police.

UNABLE TO GET ANY CLUE

Two bold robberies in the most fashionable part of Cambridge and to-day keeping the police of that city busy trying to discover some clue to the guilty ones.

The apartments of George I. Whitney at No. 84 Mount Auburn avenue, and Mrs. Meissner Sprague at No. 86 Dana street, directly across the way, were the houses visited by the bungling housebreakers this noon and valuables of a large value were carried off.

The robberies were made some time between 9 in the morning and 2 in the afternoon yesterday, for both families were away from home during that time. In each case admission was gained by getting upon the water shed to the apartments by means of a ladder.

In the home of Mr. Whitney the ladies were coming to more than $100 was secured before the thieves were frightened away, as they thought by a maid that she was making his records.

In the Whitney home the care of the thieves was systematic and thorough. Every drawer of every bureau in the house was hauled out, and when locked the contents were forced open. The contents of drawers were emptied on the floors and the search was made through the trunk in the house had been opened and the closet's were ransacked. The thieves departed with a few articles of value in their possession.

Mrs. Whitney returned from a visit of several months in her apartment was in the wildest confusion, and she reported the case to the police but no clue had been discovered.

At the apartment of Mrs. Sprague the robbers had entered by the rear window and got away about. A pistol case which contained many valuable articles was also missing, but Mrs. Sprague thinks it possible that the burglars broke in while they knew that no one away with her.

It's Easy to Write a Big Ad; To Do Big, Counts More

To the People of New England:

I came here from Brooklyn, N. Y., on Tuesday, Jan. 21st. At the meeting of the creditors of Rogers & Co., on that day, I was made assignee and instructed to dispose of the Rogers stock at retail, for their benefit. Rogers & Co. first started business in the store which they now occupy at 381 Washington St., about one year ago. Since its foundation this store has done a most successful business, selling the higher grades of men's ready-to-wear clothing and furnishings, but this past season they became heavily overstocked, and on account of the present stringency in the money market they were unable to meet their obligations and were forced to make an assignment. And I, as I said before, have been selected to dispose of their assets for the creditors' benefit.

Sales Galore in Boston

Now, it has worried me a great deal to know how I can do this. I know I can sell every article they have at the prices they are satisfied to get for it, but in these days of exaggeration in advertising, how can I get the people into the store to see what I really intend to do?

One thing very discouraging to me was seeing in the daily papers of your city, which I have read since being here, lists of the great values the merchants in different lines have been giving you.

I see that you have had here in the past 10 days dissolution, bank crash, bankrupt, consignment, reorganization, and, in fact, sales of every kind and description. I have looked over their ads very carefully, and studied the pretty pictures of the great values you have been offered. I found that you have been able to buy the very finest $50 and $60 custom suits for less money than it usually costs to sew a first-class coat.

I see you have been able to buy overcoats that originally sold for $25—"overcoats made of the very finest foreign fabrics"—for a $5 bill.

Mere Paper Talk

Now, after reading all these tales, I felt a trifle worried, and why shouldn't I? Here I am with the newest and freshest stock in this city on my hands, for Rogers & Co. have been in business but a short time. I have the best tailored stock, for Rogers & Co.'s clothing was made specially by one of America's best makers.

What can I say about this stock that you would believe?

You have, as I said before, been able to buy the very highest grades of merchandise (according to the advertisements), for one-half the cost of the materials alone.

How, then, could I expect you to believe what I have to say? I came here on Tuesday last, and have had no time to mark the stock up 100%, then give the marked-up price a cut of 50%.

I have had no time to get in a lot of cheap goods to quote low prices with, as is the usual custom at most clothing sales, and yet I will place the Rogers & Co. stock on sale with a price on it which should close it out in a day.

Stop—Look—Listen

I want the people of all New England to come to this sale, for my bargains are in the store and not in this advertisement. The Rogers & Co. stock contains thousands of men's suits, overcoats, raincoats and pants, also a complete line of men's high grade furnishings.

If there is a man, woman or child, or dealer, who would buy a Fall suit or article of furnishings at a greater sacrifice than was ever made on the same grade of merchandise, I want them to come to this sale.

The creditors wish me to dispose of this stock quickly, and there is a price on it that should close it out in a day. The sale opens Saturday morning, January 25th, at 9 a. m. Store will be open Saturday evening.

Rogers & Co., Inc., Clothing Dealers, Make Assignment.

Rogers & Co., Inc., dealers in clothing at 381 Washington st., yesterday made an assignment to Joseph S. Klotz of Brooklyn.

According to Assignee Klotz all the creditors will ultimately be paid in full. The assignment became necessary due to the unseasonable weather. Practically all of the clothing has been carried over by the assignment and a meeting will be held next week to decide what will be done with the stock on hand, which is valued approximately at $75,000. Most of the indebtedness is for merchandise delivered. No statement of the liabilities is as yet available.

$18.00 Spring Overcoats... Now 10.50
$15.00 Spring Overcoats... Now 9.50

Dress Suits and Tuxedos

The inventorying of this immense stock has so delayed me that at the time of making this announcement I have not reached this department with my shoe pencil, but I am under the impression that I shall place most of them on sale for one-half the former selling price. For instance:

$40.00 Dress Suits..... Now 20.00
$30.00 Dress Suits..... Now 10.00

Men's Dress Gloves

The glove department contains Fownes Cavendish Tan Gloves and Adler's Mocha, Dogskin, dressed and undressed in all leathers. Will be marked as follows:

Fancy Shirts

The fancy shirt stock consists mostly of coat shirts, in both domestic and foreign makes. Many in fancy colors of neat black and white figured and striped effects. The lowest-priced shirt in the store cost $1.50, ranging up to $2.50. None will be reserved. All will be marked to sell at.....Sale price 1.05

Men's Furnishings

One of the first things I did upon my arrival in this city was to attend the sale of a merchant who advertised in the morning papers a well-known furnishing article for one-half the actual cost. I entered his store 15 minutes after his doors opened. I was the only customer, and when I asked for that article he had advertised I was told that he had all sold out. How the Rogers store has a large stock of every article listed in this announcement you will find them here doors open, but they won't

An Old Maid's Own Confessions of Her Leap Year Troubles

CHAPTER IV — THE SPINSTER NEXT DECIDES TO TAKE A WHIRL AT JONATHAN JORROCKS, WHOSE LATE BEREAVEMENT WAS FLAVORED WITH SOD AND WHO SEEMED SUSCEPTIBLE

BY ARLETTA B. CANFIELD

THIS is terrible. Jane has had her fling and I see as if I was to have mine. Perhaps I had better begin.

Anyhow I resolved over again to do or die. When I called on Dr. Gould not at first dwelle. What could be the possibilities I was determined to get over for the comfort that time. They are just terrible. I was going to say horrible, but I thought that was a bit too strong.

The thing to do with this gentleman is get one who is to be had. Of course I don't let him find out I was on the make, but a wife, you understand, I resolved I

"Jonathan Jorrocks," flashed across the horizon of my mind. He would be admirably Jonathanic, serviceable, flavored with sod at night and there was as yet no person to whom I could hope.

Glorious thought! I would be forever his. Did my readers ever marry? Wait and see.

Was a Shame to Do It

Genevieve Morris, one of my intimate cronies, lived next door to the Jorrocks in Oak Park. I had a standing invitation to visit her. I packed some things in a small and plain house gowns in a steamer trunk and forward Ada, Queen of the Bluebirds.

Oh, I knew it. It was so easy I was almost ashamed to do it. He almost died after dinner, did he? Well, I'll tell you that he had two children! Well, and that was an overdose. There are twin children in the family, little ones at that!

You should have seen me doing the agreeable to the babies after the first stand kids. But these didn't count. It was their little mocassins hurting me so to boarding school when I entered the big wam of the big club!

Jonathan is a big, fat baby himself, and my! how he likes to eat! I felt sure then and I joined that cooking class last Winter that the knowledge would come in handy some time.

Starts in Mildly

Well, the poor fish had been half fed ere long seconds to jump on my lap before hit the water. I started in mildly. The first evening I made fudges and, well, if anybody can get the underlying principle and sugar to a more delicious state or fudge than can Bill when he gets mad, I'll make trot her out. I want to see her.

Now, I was too wise to go off into the kitchen all by my lonely to make fudges. Genevieve had to put her hand to the wheel and do so.

However, my times were clearing. The cooking class grew smaller and smaller. Half of the girls were disappointed that I was not of the psychological moment when the cooking class grew small. Then I made the point that our needs not mixed enough. I'm not a dollar in the bank, and I have a kind and proper by the darling little locks that I accidentally on purpose striped all over his face.

He seemed to like it and I didn't mind was test I heard him tell Genevieve he would never let them out of his club again now to think of all the good sugar I shall I go and steam shall I do? stained an iron that man. But I don't care. I had a real and am all the more fitted for Park spasm. He is so profane! Bella is my next campaign. This one was so tame trying to teach him to talk more indistinctly anyway. But really I feel as if I had been and I don't like to interfere.

Now for something worth while. Where

A CHAFING DISH CONQUEST

"AN AMBITIOUS MAN"

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1903, by American Press Association.

YET for the moment he hesitated to speak the words he had resolved to utter, under the goad of a desire to God, so strong were the influences of his early training and his habits of thought. But the voice of his better self, the voice which had been his destination vanished and he leaned toward her and spoke:

"Joy," he said, "three years ago I was weak and I felt it to surrender you, since I was afraid to brave public opinion, afraid to displease my mother and ask you to be my wife. The story your mother told me of your birth, and the stigma left in her mind for you to rest, made a social scandal for you. I was afraid to take a girl branded as she was in the public mind, to be my life companion, the mother of my children. Well, I married another and found she was my companion."

Chained to a Corpse

He paused and laughed recklessly. Then went on hurriedly: "She is in an insane asylum. I am chained to a corpse for life, and not enough moral courage to break the chain. I have no one but myself to blame. I have moral courage enough now to go to her and tell her that she is free to Ann and begin a new life together. But I have not moral courage enough to offend the world by bidding. I will abandon her, Joy, and you will be my wife. I cannot live without you. I cannot live in a world of men and women and not have you. Will you be my wife?"

He was in a peculiarly overwrought condition of mind and body. Her hours of struggle and sweeping the previous night had caused in a day of fasting, left her nerves in a state to be easily worked upon by the inside she had been playing with fire. She was intoxicated with her power and harmony. She was incapable of reasoning, and was only conscious of the things that she most desired. Beyond, that the man whom she had loved for five years, was asking her to be his wife. He was asking her to go with him, to be no more soulless, unloved, and alone, but his companion, his wife, his all.

"Answer me, Joy," he was pleading in a low tone.

She moved toward the stairway that led down to the front door; and as she lifted her head she said, looking him full in the face, with a strange, grave smile, "Yes, I will go with you." He sprang too and caught her in his arms, and they went hurriedly down the stairs and out into the night.

Walked in Silence

When he locked her, they walked in silence through the rain to her door, neither speaking a word, until he had unlocked it and led her within. Then she turned to him, and with her hands upon his shoulders looked up into his face. Arthur, we must not see each other again until we go away. We must be sure to keep apart. I will join you within twenty-four hours. You will urge me, you will compel me this once, afterward I will obey you. Good night."

As she closed the door upon him he said, "Oh, Joy, I love you more than life itself. I promised your father when he was dying that I would find you. I swore to myself that when I found you I would make you my wife. I have found you and you are mine. I go now, only because you bid me. When we meet again there must be no more parting, and you shall hear a story more than the wildest fiction. It is the story of your father's life. Despite your mother's assertions regarding this portion of her husband's life, the knowledge has come to me in the most unexpected manner, but from the lips of the man himself. Joy, I love you!"

Joy listened dreamily to the words he was saying. Her father—she was to know who her father was.

Well, it did not matter much to her now—father, mother, what were they, what was anything save the fact that he had won back to her and that he loved her?

She smiled silently into his eyes. Glance became entangled with glance, and would not be separated.

He pushed open the almost closed door and she felt herself enveloped with arms and lips.

A second later she stood alone, leaning drearily against the door, heart, brain and limbs numb with the shock of emotion.

She fell into a chair and covered her burning face with her hands as she whispered, "Mother, mother, forgive me. I understand. I understand."

CHAPTER XX.

THE first shock of the awakened emotions brings recklessness to some women, and to others fear.

The more frivolous plunge forward like the drunken man who leaps from the open window believing it water.

The woman who thinks love is all ideal is more likely to recoil into unbruised self-possession.

Midnight when Joy fell into a merciful sleep the night of Arthur Stuart's visit found the drop of the dreary. Nevermore upon the roof, and still her light and warmth seemed stricken from the outside save the fierce fire in her heart.

When she woke in the late morning great splashes of sunshine were leaping and quivering like golden fishes across the foot of her bed. She rose and looked out upon the world, dazed for a few moments by the sunlight, and went to the window and looked out upon a world that was fair and fresh and clean as a perfect Indian summer day.

A happy little sparrow chirped upon the window sill, and some children ran across the street, hatless and, exulting in the early frost in a mad riot of devotion.

Joy sank

DETSCH WILL KNOW HIS FATE BEFORE NIGHT

Philadelphian Charged with Killing Wife's Admirer Wins Victory in Rulings.

BAR STATE'S CONTENTION

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 24.—Andrew Jackson Detsch, charged with murdering his wife's alleged admirer, Harry Ferree, will probably know his fate before night. Attorney Clemen, Detsch's counsel, concluded his final address to-day, and Prosecutor Taulane then began the summing up for the State.

Through the shutting out yesterday of the efforts and the pictures offered by the prosecution to prove the alleged motive that Detsch killed Ferree because he had discovered his wife's relations with him, and Detsch's good appearance on the stand, it is freely predicted he will be acquitted.

Attorney Clemen laid great stress on Detsch's own story of his belief he was shooting at a burglar when he fired on Ferree through the door of his room. The State's contention was ridiculed as without support of the slightest proof. The good character given Detsch by other witnesses was also referred to.

District Attorney Taulane clung to his conception that Detsch knew who he was firing at and had lured Ferree to his death.

TO OVERHAUL BOSTON SEWER DEPARTMENT

A complete reorganization of the administrative and engineering forces of the sewer department of the city is expected at City Hall as a result of the report on the department made by the Finance Commission, and now in the hands of Mayor Hibbard.

The commission declares that there has been enormous waste in the sewer department, perhaps more than in any other city department.

Political rather than scientific reasons have governed the awarding of contracts, the report states.

It criticises the contracts let without competition, but says they are valid and the work must continue. Twenty-three of these, amounting to over $250,000, were let during the closing days of the Fitzgerald administration.

Most of these contracts, the commission finds, were handed out as "gift contracts" to political friends of the administration.

Engineering Force Scored.

A stinging castigation is administered to the engineering force of the department, which plans the sewer work, in the following statement:

"The magnitude of the sewer problem can hardly be overstated, and how cheerfully has been grasped by recent city administrations. The cost of the work now contemplated is estimated at $20,000,000. It would be rash to prophesy that the present will not be nearer $30,000,000 under present methods. The work we suppose has been largely for political rather than for business or scientific reasons."

The commission calls attention to what it has made a thorough investigation of the problem.

Present Law Injurious.

"City Hall the removal of Chief Engineer E. S. Dorr and other engineers of the sewer department who have had charge of the planning of sewer construction for several years, is expected, in view of the commission's report.

The commission is convinced that there has been enormous waste both in the letting of contracts and the purchase of supplies. The department is in an utterly demoralized state owing to lax discipline and efficiency, the commission has found.

The present law, by providing that no money shall be spent for sewer construction except from loans specifically for that purpose, prevents the exercise of economy and puts a premium upon extravagance.

The commission finds that the contracts for cleaning catch basins, let out by wholesale during the closing days of the last administration, were let in many cases for binding which do not exist; that others are paid for twice in the same contract; that others have been contracted for at prices where cleaning was unnecessary; that 25 per basin, the price paid, is an excessive price, and that numbers of those demanding cleaning have been neglected.

PRONOUNCED HIS CASE INCURABLE

Whole Body Raw with Eczema—Life was Intolerable—Was Even Incased in Plaster—Discharged from Hospitals as Hopeless.

SUFFERED 14 YEARS CURED BY CUTICURA

"From the age of three months until fifteen years old, my son Owen's life was made intolerable by eczema in its worst form. He was all right until a red rash broke out on his forehead, but we were not alarmed at first. Very soon, however, the rash began to spread over his head and shoulders, and it caused him great discomfort. I took him to a doctor and tried half a dozen other treatments, all with the same result: no improvement at all. The disease gradually spread until nearly every part of his body was quite raw. We had to strap him down in bed, for he used to tear himself dreadfully in his sleep. The agony he went through is quite beyond words. No one thought he would rear him. The regimental doctor, a very clever man, pronounced the case hopeless; at least, he said the only hope was that he might, if he lived long enough, outgrow it to some extent. We had him in hospitals four times and he was pronounced one of the worst cases, if not the worst, ever admitted. From each he was discharged as incurable; in fact he got worse under the successive treatments. At one hospital they incased him in plaster, and this seemed to aggravate the soreness terribly. He looked so badly that no one liked to go near him and his life was a burden to him. We kept trying remedy after remedy, but we had got almost past hoping for a cure. Six months ago we purchased a set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent Pills and persevered with them. The result was truly marvelous and to-day he is perfectly cured, his skin not having a blemish on it anywhere. DISASTER DUE TO CURIOSITY

The Boylston theatre disaster, in which 200 lives were lost, was not caused by the "explosion" of a moving picture machine, as at first reported, according to the New York Sunday Call.

That paper declares that a child spilled a row of kerosene lamps on the stage aisle trying to pull the curtain aside to learn the cause of the hissing which came from a broken needle valve on a tank of hydrogen used in operating the calcium with calcium light.

"There was no moving picture machine in the building," says the Call. "An illustrated lecture was being given with old fashioned glass lantern slides."

CUTS DAUGHTER OFF IN WILL.

NEW BEDFORD, Jan. 23.—In her will Mrs. Joanna K. Nye practically cuts her only daughter off, leaving the property to a grandson, Frank Nye Kirschbaum, employed in Boston. The estate is worth about $50,000. Mrs. Nye's daughter is the wife of Judge Austin of Roxbury. Mrs. Nye was the widow of Captain Ebenezer Nye. Mrs. Austin is left the sum of $1,000 in the will.

Best Value-Giving Sale

Boston has seen this season. Not the biggest in claims, perhaps, because we don't believe in exaggeration; but when it comes to a real show down, we've got the goods. We don't claim to save you from $8 to $10 on a garment. That would be an insult to the intelligence of any man who thinks for himself. We do say we can save you from $3 to $5 on every suit or overcoat you buy here—and this we can prove to your entire satisfaction.

We believe that the average person would much rather save one dollar and have no doubts about it than to supposedly save two dollars and not be sure of having really saved it. We've been giving real values for over twenty years. Values that the thinking man can take home and be absolutely sure about—and if any doubts should arise, "Your money back if you want it" always clinches the matter.

JACK M'AULIFFE WILL SPAR WITH LAVIGNE

BY TAD.

Jack McAuliffe and Kid Lavigne will soon appear in a vaudeville sketch which opens at Buffalo.

McAuliffe is the only lightweight who ever retired a champion, while Lavigne was the greatest man after McAuliffe's time. The latter used to live to Frank Erne in Buffalo and hasn't appeared there since. The pair will appear in a sketch in which there is a three-round bout. Sam Fitzpatrick has trained them up on a fifteen weeks' contract.

By the way, we could not listen to Leeching the final decision for Jim Jeffries Johnson on with Burns, Ketchel and now, with Langford and McAuliffe, Sam has a little sentiment of his own.

Hey, you, Kaiser Bill, Edinger rocks ahead!

Mr. F. Lockwood, of Wembley Castle, Middlesex, England, has written asking for the address of both Joe Jeanette and Jim Flynn. Mr. Lockwood, who is known as "Jolly Jumbo," is the stout gentleman who had his picture taken with Burns a number of times, and he is afraid that the chances are that he wants the two big beauties for a battle on the other side. They will probably hear from him within a few weeks.

When Packy McFarland was about fifteen years of age he was a terrible reader. He had a scrap album that looked like a bale of hay full of shipping and fight pictures, and at night just before he hooked adoring the pictures of scrappers, Danny Kenger was his favorite. He says he used to wonder if he would ever become that great. Benny, in his eyes, was greater than Julius Caesar.

He started to fight himself soon after and made quite a name around Colorado in the amateur bouts. He says he used that he was hard to get a fight, and he beat it up to Milwaukee, changing his name to Kid Carl Emmick. Up there he beat two fellows in one night, copped two gold watches and then went home again. He was, in his own words, "dead tight" to have a manager, so he waited till the gilt himself. Now he has Harry Gilmore, and he supplies more than he ever dreamed of. Packy is a terrible hayseed boy, and he is for the Chicago Tribune straight, plane and simple, and will bet his shoes on them any time they start.

Well, if all they say about Rudolph Duhois is true, Mr. Battling Nelson will have an attack of trouble when he meets Rolfe. The latter is the gent who trimmed George Memsic in Los Angeles a few weeks ago, and they say he simply "licked Memsic's head off."

What They Want to Know.

Harry Baker wants to know why some of these featherweights don't post a forfeit or two to fight him.

Willie Fitzgerald wants to know why some one doesn't say that they can trim Jim in a round or so.

Lew Shepard and his manager, Mr. Amrose, want to know why Leach Cross doesn't want to mix with them.

"Hingside" wants to know why Bert Keyes or Packy McFarland never say a word about fighting Johnny Dohie.

Kid Broad wants to know if Bill Squires lost his way and needs a good guide.

Tommy Burns says he trains to-day for his fight with Jack Palmer, which takes place at Wonderland Pavilion, in London, on February 10. Burns will train at Jack Scraps Castle, at Hampstead Heath. Joe Rogers, who is at Wembley Castle, Burns's old training quarters, takes up all the room, and Tommy found this new place. He has been out on the road with the moving pictures of his last fight, and he is now giving a talk on them, boxed three rounds with Charley Wilson.

CUTLER AND SCHAEFER, WHO MET FOR CUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Cutler put up a great fight with the veteran for the 18.1 balk line honors, and was only beaten 500 to 476. The Wizard was more than 150 points ahead of him in the 30th inning. After that Cutler began to slowly cut down the lead.

This is the last race that Miss Harris will skate at Park Square for some time, as she goes to New York this month to race several lady skaters.

GANS SAYS PACKY CAN BEAT BATTLING NELSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Joe Gans, the lightweight champion of the world, is so confident that Packy McFarland will defeat Battling Nelson that he is willing to bet $5,000 on the Chicago fighter at even money. Gans, who is appearing at a local theatre, believes that McFarland is superior in all the rest of the lightweights in his class.

"McFarland will whip Nelson surely," said Joe, "or my name is not Gans. I have fought the Dane, and know just how good he is, and I have seen McFarland in action. Take it from me, the Chicago boy is better than the Battler. Nelson or Gans since it up.

Battling Nelson is ready to meet Packy McFarland at any time, and is willing to bet $5,000 on the result. Nelson says that Packy can't stand the pace that he will set in the ring. "Then one will go down in his bankroll for good to last on Packy."

Concluding, Gans says: "There is one thing that makes me feel sad. There is no chance that I can make a match with Battler the old man is too good or not, for Gans dare meet me in the ring."

Gans has peculiar ideas on "Hilda" Jeffries Johnson and Sonny Burns. Johnson will beat Burns in twenty rounds, as a fight to a finish I think Burns could be returned the "winner," is the way Gans sizes it up.

FOSDICK SAYS MOTOR BUSINESS IS BOOMING

By J. C. KERRISON.

Harry Fosdick of New York and Boston is one of the founders and earliest of workers for the Bay State Automobile Association, in at present spending a few days in this city as the guest of Messrs. Alfred N. and Lincoln Robbins of the Harry Fosdick Company. As is well known Harry Fosdick is prominently identified with the Motor Boston Company of New York city and his trip to Boston is taken mostly for recreation purposes after a particularly busy season. Naturally enough Mr. Fosdick is pleased to get back even for a brief period among the men and people with whom he has made great success. In speaking about matters in general Mr. Fosdick yesterday said that he was satisfied that the motor business is on the boom, that the hardest part of the season has been experienced and that from now out there will be no cause for complaint on the part of anyone in New York he said things are picking up tremendously. We have all the business we can handle and it is the same all down the line. Where two months ago there were long drawn faces there are now seen smiling ones and money is coming in quite rapidly. He did not care to do any great amount of talking as regards the coming Erlanger-Fosdick four cylinder six which is winning the same. His firm has entered one for that event and rumor has it that Harry Fosdick will drive the car in this race. This is one department in which Thomson believes the game has not to be overplayed, and that is the brake-spring. Bennett, Ewing and Kelly, he says, were the superiors of any of the present generation in all-round ability, craftiness and headwork.

The Tiger pennant has been received in Detroit. It is a handsome affair in red, white and blue colors. President Navin has easy decided just what he will do with it. He will await the coming of Spring before deciding. The pennant which club will be the visitor when the first home game is played on the Tiger Park diamond is to have it raised when Walter Hutton gets the Tigertown. It would be fitting, Navin believes, to have the pennant raised when the hunting goes up, as it was in Brerville that the Tigers clinched it championship virtually with two pitchers Geitzein and Lady Baldwin.

The greatest development in pitching is the spit ball. Whenever I face one of the fellows who use it I am at sea. A man is batting at nothing. You can follow a curve, but the spitter breaks at an angle after the batter starts his swing.

There is but one department in which Thompson believes the game has not to be improved, and that is the basket-stealing. Bennett, Ewing and Kelly, he says, were the superiors of any of the present generation in all-round ability, craftiness and headwork.

When the absolute non-practicability of this still have been aimed then in very rich the millennium of automobiling will have been reached. The repair and upkeep cost of tires have been the bugbear of motorists both from the time and trouble as well as economical standpoints. Owners are now less inclined to take the "say so" of interested dealers as to the quality of tires they have come to be sold, and are very generally disposed to put all tires through their own hands. They have come to realize that true economy of maintenance lies in buying the best, for that owners are beginning to choose automobiles with which the tire industry are finding it to be the best business policy to meet this situation even at additional cost of manufacture. For instance, the Pink Rubber Company has at only made one of the biggest contracts in the year for pure Para rubber, but is adding another layer of fabric to its tubes.

The separation of the different parts of a machine that may become slightly loose is another measure of dirt and corrosion during a long period of use often becomes a source of trouble, and if the nature of the parts that thus refuse to disassemble is such that a great force must be applied without danger of injury the problem becomes serious.

In such a case nothing promises better relief than a liberal application of kerosene, supplemented by light but continuous hammering with a hammer. By directing the taps judiciously first in one direction and then another, and giving them much force as is safe, long persistence in this method will generally result in the desired separation.

The application of kerosene should be made from time to time, if necessary, to insure it being taken as any part softens, ready to be dissolved by its property of penetrating to the point of contact. Nuts, bolts and nuts, shafts, pins and keys, etc., this method will be found equal to the expert and machinists and repair men as almost a

MUCH INTEREST IN NEXT BOUT AT ARMORY A. A.

It is not surprising that the membership at the Armory A. A. is increasing, as the boxing entertainment which is the rule this on tap next Tuesday night, when Matty Baldwin meets "Kid" Goodman to settle an argument of long standing, is an attraction which few followers of the game would care to miss.

It will be the third meeting of the pair, and still no satisfactory decision has been rendered as to their respective abilities.

Neither boy has ever been knocked out, which gives sufficient guarantee that the bout will go the limit of twelve rounds. Each is noted for going all the way.

It will be the first bout at the club which will keep the members in thrills for the whole distance.

In the first meeting between the pair Goodman lost on a foul in the fifteenth round, and in the second mill Baldwin got the decision at the end of the fifteen rounds, but the results showed a lot of contrary comment.

They are to box at catchweights on this occasion and each boy will be at his very strongest.

CUTLER LOSES MATCH WITH SCHAEFER

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—Jake Schaefer of Chicago successfully defended his title as champion of the 18.1 balk line billiards here in a match with Albert Cutler of Boston. The match was at 500 points, and, though Schaefer won, Cutler gave him an awful close run, the final score being: Schaefer, 500; Cutler, 476.

Schaefer's high run was 59 and Cutler's 56. The latter showed his smashed form in the early stages of the game, and at the end of the thirty-fourth inning the Wizard had a lead of 150 points. After this his playing dropped off for a number of innings, while Cutler seemed to improve in form, decreasing Schaefer's lead steadily, but never quite in the fifty-seventh inning he secured 56 points, and, with a run of 59 in the next inning, but Schaefer came back with runs of 24 and 43 in the next two innings and won the match. Schaefer's average was 4 5-6; and Cutler's 2 21-56.

WIZARD SCHAEFFER WON HIS TITLE BY BIG RUN

The manner in which Jacob Schaeffer was named the "Wizard" has really never been published, and will make interesting reading for the followers of pocket billiards.

Schaeffer, when quite a young man, began his career as an expert in the room run by Vignaux, Ussepp and Sutzaux, in New York.

As he advanced in age and to the room opened tournaments in the billiard halls of New York, in which he was the champion, plumbing the depths of the game, and such a marvelous knowledge of same play that many called him a "wizard."

Some time after this tournament Schaeffer defeated Ives, Vignaux and Sutzaux in 3,000 points to the latter's 1,000, and after meeting two more experts in a 1,000-point match, running the required number without a miss, he was then known as the "Wizard" fifteen hundred points without a miss.

This feat was one of the most wonderful performances ever seen upon a billiard table, and Schaeffer's name changed up his one he remarked, "Why, I'm a wizard," and the name has stuck to him ever since.

Says the Doves Will Keep Their Rivals Hustling KEELER PRAISES KELLEY

Joe Kelley will be both manager and field captain of the Boston Nationals, which means that Tom McInnis will merely play first base. Speaking of Kelley's reorganized team, Billy Keeler says that with such quick thinkers and inside players as Kelley, Dahlen, Bowerman, McInnis, Hitchey and Beaumont in the lineup, Boston will have plenty of excitement as far as the National League is concerned. "Kelley is well liked by all the players," says Keeler, which means that the Boston team will be playing all the time.

Archie Stem, who, besides being an artist of international fame, is a famous cricketer, was commenting on the relative merits of cricket and baseball.

"When a batsman knocks out a long fly in our cricket matches," said Archie, "and the fielder runs after it, he doesn't usually dance around near it, our British fans clap their hands and cry:

"Well tried, old chap! Blooming well tried!"

"When a fielder in a baseball game almost breaks his neck to get under a fly that you'd think was going to kill him, and eventually gets near enough to have to break one of his fingers, but he can't hold it, as how could he, under the circumstances, your fosters yell and scream:

"Kill the bum! He's a piece of cheese. He couldn't pick an apple out of a barrel."

The one bet that Archie has ever looked is that the attitude of the American fan toward his national game is the reason for the difference between baseball and cricket.

A red hot St. Louis baseball fan who is a relative of Pitcher Hinde and Second Baseman Niles of the New York Americans says he will make the following wager: That some day that Glade beats out any of the three pitching corps anybody wants to name, $100 even that Glade will beat any member of the New York pitching corps in a game, $200 to $100 that Glade beats any member of the New York pitching corps in a game, $300 to $100 that Glade beats out every member of the pitching staff, $1000 to $400 that Glade beats out all of the New York American league pitchers, $500 to $200 that Niles beats Joel Hedman, C. Jones, Williams and Ferguson in one game, $1000 to $400 that Glade beats Mercer and Harkins of the old Canton, Ohio, outfit, two of the speediest fans that ever rustled a pasb ball.

Glade is the reigning Boston hard for first place honors and are out to win tonight's game. As a result, the fans will probably see the fastest exhibition of roller polo on record.

HAMILTON IN SECOND.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 24.—Exciting finishes in all the races characterized the elimination trials for the two-mile event in the world's championship roller skating race held here, the final of which is to be run next Monday night. The summary:

First heat: Frank Bacon, McKeesport, first; Jack Woodward, Pittsburg, second; W. H. Merrill, Canada, third. Time—6:12 2-5.

Second heat: Rodney Peters, St. Louis, first; Clarence Hamilton, Boston, second; Edgar Mock, Johnstown, third. Time—6:12 2-5.

Final—Peters, first, Hamilton second, Woodward third. Time—6:16 3-5.

BILL BANNON POLO STAR AT RINK TONIGHT

New Britain will be the team to face the Boston polo quintet on the surface at the Boston Park Square Rink to-night and some hot scrapping is assured.

A big delegation will come down from Lynn to watch Bill Hopper guard the goal of the visitors. It is years since the Bee City favorite was seen in active polo warfare, and he is due for a rousing reception. The visitors are going to make a lot of trouble for the fast working Hub bunch with the new head on the Lynn team.

On the rush line are Mercer and Harkins of the old Canton, Ohio, outfit, two of the speediest fans that ever rustled a polo ball.

Glade is the reigning Boston hard for first place honors and are out to win to-night's game. As a result, the fans will probably see the fastest exhibition of roller polo on record.

GOODWIN WAS EASY MARK FOR CROSS

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Leach Cross of New York found Chester Goodwin of Boston easy picking in the main bout at the Longacre Club. The old Boston fighter was a wonder in his day, but he has gone back woefully and Cross gave him a bad beating.

Three times did he knock Goodwin down and he won by a mile. In the fourth round, however, Goodwin showed a flash of his old form and whipped over a hard right to the jaw which sent Cross to the mat; but he was up in a second and went after Goodwin, beating him all over the ring with left to the stomach, followed with terrific right hooks to the face.

SOLDIER BURNS MADE GOOD.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 24.—Soldier Burns fought a remarkably clever battle with Kid Sullivan of Washington before the Eureka A. C. at the Germanic Maennerchor Hall this evening. It was a fast pace from the start and was rewarded with a draw by the referee.

MANTELL KNOCKED OUT.

NEW HAVEN, J. 24.—Frank Mantell of Pawtucket took the trip to dreamland in the third round of his twelve-round bout with Harry Lewis of Philadelphia here.

ROLLER POLO RESULTS.

At Bridgeport—Bridgeport 4, Providence 1.
At Boston—New Britain 3, Worcester 2.
At Pawtucket—Pawtucket 3, New Haven 2.

Sporting News Briefly Told

M'HALE DEFEATED.

John T. McHale, the former champion of Boston, was defeated in the first evening round of the pool tournament for the championship of New England at Kimball's Hall last night by the local York expert, the latter winning 125 to 101. Tonight Wilson Jones of the South End will oppose Fred Ingraham.

SUTTON IN FORM.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—George Sutton of Chicago continued his victorious career in this city in the eighth game of the 500 point 18.2 balk line billiard match he is playing on nightly for the pool week, scoring 500 to 238.

DR. KING WINNER.

The final game of the series in the billiard tournament, at the Hub, was won by Dr. King, beating W. H. Parker, 500 to 140. That gave Dr. King the series with his average was 6 6-49, and his high run 56.

BARDGETT AND MITTEN LEAD.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 24.—A break occurred in the relative standing of the leading teams in the 21-night bowling race in Convention Hall, Bardgett and Mitten gaining a lap on the rest of the field.

GOTCH THROWS JIM BARNES.

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 24.—Frank Gotch agreed to throw Jim Barnes three falls in an hour here and accomplished his task after some clever work. The time for the falls in order was 15 :50, 10 :50 and 16 :30.

M'GARRY AND KENNEY DRAW.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—In a rattling six-round battle before the members of the Olympic Athletic Club Andy McGarry of New York and Young Kenny of Boston fought a draw.

DELMONT AND O'BRIEN DRAW

LEWISTON, Me., Jan. 24.—Al Delmont of Boston and Jimmy O'Brien of Chicago fought six rounds to a draw before the Lewiston A. C. The bout was not parting very fast and no heavy hitting was indulged in, although both men showed some very clever work.

SHRUBB WINS AGAIN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—Alfred Shrubb, the champion distance runner of the world, defeated four men in a six-mile race here, and although he ran only 10 tenths when covered the six miles in 30m. 6s.

EDUCATORS INTERESTED IN THE WALKING CLUB

PATRIOTIC AND HISTORIC VALUE OF WORK OF WESTON ATTRACTS THEIR ATTENTION.

One of the reasons why Edward Payson Weston, the record-breaking pedestrian, who is coming to Boston to toil and show the youths of the Hub how to walk and how to maintain good health, is proud of what has already been accomplished in New York, is the great interest taken in the events by men and women prominent in educational work. The same is true of those connected with patriotic and historical societies.

Already the same interest is being aroused here in Boston, where, a week from to-morrow the Weston will lead the way on a tramp to an historic spot where they will open a patriotic league.

Places of Historic Interest

In New York the first was to Grant's tomb, where several thousand boys and Jesse Grant, son of the famous man, listened to an address by Colonel John S. Kenyon, a prominent Grand Army man.

The second tramp was to the famous Jumel mansion on Washington Heights, where Washington had his headquarters for a time during the campaign about New York.

Here Mrs. Donald McLean, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, accompanied by such well-known Daughters as Mrs. Janice Lee Mrs. Doris A. Hyde and Mrs. Thomas H. Wittney, made the boys welcome, and then all walked to them in her hospitable way.

There also Theodore S. Peloubet, well known in New York educational circles, delivered a short address on the New York park and preserved her places of historic interest. Mr. Barringer expressed his delight that the boys who walked with Weston showed so much patriotism. He commended them for it and told them making up their walking and their studies.

To Sherman's Statue.

The next time the march was on for as the statue of General William T. Sherman at the entrance to Central Park. General O. O. Howard, who served with Sherman and was his intimate and who is much interested in the Weston Walking Club, is to have been present and deliver a little talk on Sherman's military life, but on account of illness he was unable to be there. And so, with the educational and the historic advantages which the Weston Walking Club offers boys, Secretary Edward Morse and Tom Stanley, its captain, are confident that the membership in the ring, rather before than after this week, will be at least 1,000 in the Boston Boys Interested.

The boys of Boston are coming to join under the Weston walking banner as have those of New York and Brooklyn, and are preparing to take to Weston Walking Club No. 2 Summer Street. There are already so many boys in the walk. Mr. Weston is able to care for all who cannot be in the week from Saturday to Saturday, and there is extra no room for the rest.

On the storefront of the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day will be found the coupon which will entitle any boy to membership in the E. P. Weston Walking Club.

JENNINGS WILL STAND PAT ON HIS TIGERS

Aside from the batteries, Manager Jennings will stand pat on his championship team of 1907. Rossman is a pitcher worth in the world series, and as he has continued to improve steadily as the season advanced, there is no question now of anybody securing his place. The rest of the team would be hard to improve upon.

There is no pitching staff that Jennings must worry about. Not that the four regulars have not done grand service. They have, but they will be required to do more of it up. Four men are not enough to carry a major league team through to victory every year.

As to the catching department, this end of the Tiger team has been handicapped all season. Both regulars have been hurt more or less from early Spring until this Fall.

Hitting in baseball covers a multitude of sins, and when the outfit was sliding along the ball made little defects passed on the field. Now that the team is not hitting as it used to, they come out in the open. The department because of the feebleness of the stick.

Schmidt was expected to do the heavy work in the receiving line, but he has not the vantage because of his sore finger. The injury seems to have affected Schmidt's throw. He cannot hold it, and the whole digit is puffed black. The pain is severe, and he has not made any additions in this department.

Jennings announced that the team would train next year at Hot Springs for three weeks. They are not to be like the Augusta training camp has been given up and Jennings in his flag will hardly touch the South before Arkansas except on a short trip to Memphis.

MANY BATTERS MADE ODD SLUMPS IN BIG LEAGUES

In both the National and American Leagues the year more batsmen fell off in their averages from the year before than gained. The National League forty-three batters fell off and fifty-six gained, and in the American fifty-one gained and sixty-two retrograded. The topmost batter in each league improved on his 1906 figures. Wagner, the National League leader, who also held that position in 1905, with .350 points in 1907, while Cobb, the American League leader, gained thirty-two points in 1907 and 1906 from .320 to .352.

The first seven batters in the National League all did this year. Among them were is Dan McGann, the New York Nationals' first baseman. There was a notable slump in the last two seasons of how McGann has slumped in a stick anything. Figures show that McGann is passing the first ten batters. That he gained .040 over 1906 this season and that he improved his rank by sixty-four points. Only one player in better who is on the down grade. Magee and Bescossa are those who made the big jumps.

The largest increase in the National League was made by Richie, the Philadelphia pitcher. He advanced 114 points. The second largest increase was experienced by Evers, the Chicago second baseman, who has been playing in the .300 class for three years. Evers added 110 points to his average. Bescossa, the New York pitcher, is also found among the big gainers. He shot from second to 149th place and made the tremendous leap of 106 points. Scott, of Boston, is also found among the big gainers. He added 103 points to his average and is now a first class hitter.

Two noted performances with the ash in the American League were the fact that Cobb batted .420 and Crawford batted .400. Cobb batted .420 in 1906, but his average was higher and Crawford batted .400 in 1907, while Cobb, the leader, batted .350. Cobb was also found among the big gainers. He added 32 points to his average. Lajoie and Crawford, the two batters who ranked next to Cobb, batted .350 and .400 respectively. Lajoie was found in rank but was fifty-six points poorer in batting average than in 1906. Lajoie batted .350 in 1906 and .350 in 1907, while Crawford batted .400 in 1906 and .400 in 1907. Crawford's batting average made by Bill Donovan, who batted .345 in 1906 and .345 in 1907. Donovan batted .345 in 1906 and .345 in 1907. Donovan batted .345 in 1906 and .345 in 1907. Donovan

These Women Wouldn't Give Their Names

They Showed Some Sense of Decency. They Also Settled the Argument Against Themselves

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

"Little Tim" Sullivan, Alderman in New York, did one good thing when he prepared a regulation forbidding smoking by women in public restaurants. We don't care to go into detailed argument in the matter. It is enough to say that the woman who would smoke in a public restaurant is not a decent woman, or not a sober woman, OR NEITHER one nor the other.

She has no self-respect for herself, she lacks the sense of shame, the redeeming trait of womanly decency that keeps some very hard women from voluntarily setting a bad example before good women, and to young women especially.

The interesting feature of "Little Tim" Sullivan's attack on the cigarette smoking was the arrival of a number of women to oppose his view and defend the cigarette.

It is not surprising to learn that these women had rather hard faces.

IT IS GRATIFYING TO LEARN THAT THEY HAD DECENCY ENOUGH TO REFUSE TO GIVE THEIR NAMES. In refusing to give their names they gave "Little Tim" Sullivan as good an argument as he could possibly want. If the women really felt that they were there on any decent errand, any respectable errand, they wouldn't be ashamed to tell their names. If they were there to protect children or to protect morality, they would give their names quickly enough.

But when they go to protest against an effort to enforce decency in public, they keep their names secret. They are wise and very CONVINCING.

We don't think there will be much public smoking in Boston for awhile, by women—if only because no respectable woman would be seen in a restaurant where such indecency is permitted, and no man would have the slightest excuse for taking any woman whom he respected to such a resort.

What Is a Hypocrite?

Mr. Milton Wants to Know

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

Joseph Milton writes to the editor of this paper, asking that an editorial be written answering the question "What Is a Hypocrite?"

He and some of his friends discussed the question, and would like the thing discussed in this column.

We invite our readers to send in their definition of a hypocrite, using not more than twenty-five or fifty words in the definition.

That is a difficult restriction, but space makes it necessary.

A dozen or more definitions of the hypocrite would give an idea of the general public opinion as to what constitutes frankness and sincerity.

Our word hypocrite, as you know, is as old as the Greek word hypokrites. In the old days it had a different meaning, the definition being given as "one who answers from the stage."

The definition and the meaning which it has in our day may have grown out of the fact that in Greece the actor appeared with a mask, hiding the real face.

In our modern day the best picture of the hypocrite is undoubtedly drawn by Dickens in his wonderful character, Uriah Heep.

But in some of the fashionable churches of our country you can find some LIVING Uriah Heeps that give an extremely good imitation of Mr. Dickens's character, and that even surpass him sometimes.

A short definition of the hypocrite is "A man who says one thing and does or means another."

But we have no doubt that many better definitions will come from our readers.

The Meddling Crocodile

By James J. Montague

A HORRID, Meddling Crocodile was bowed with Carking Care
Because he found that Life was quite a Terrible Affair.
That Creatures Lied and Swore and Stole and Fought, and Otherwise
Committed Wrongs and Broke the Laws, seemed Evil in his Eyes.
He Sighs That others Must Look Sad—and had moved him oft to Weep.
And, Worrying about such Things, he lost much Needful Sleep.
Until he thought that he was Called to make them See a Light,
To check them on their Mad Career and Kindly Head Them Right.

ONE evening, as he Skimpered Forth Beside the Rippling Nile
He Saw a Mere Mortician and Despiteful Crocodile
Engraved in the Corrosive Acid of Woodcut, Wife and Child,
Whom he had Beaten up within a Half inch of her life.
"Aha!" said he. "Beside Whom I am both Gratitude and Praise
By making the Rude Wretch Behold the Error of his Ways!"
And, elevating his Gaze, the Gent a Pad upon his Wrist
And Wrote a Letter to the Editor of Punkinville Dispatch.

WHEN next the Modern Sun arose above the Orient East
And Sped Effulgent Rays upon both Sand and Man and Beast,
It Lit a Shining Something on the Swirling, Whirling Nile
A Something that was Stark and Cold—to wit, a Crocodile
Whose First and Best Meant Efforts toward the Uplift of the Race
Were met with the Reception of a Sandstone on his Face.
The Which, alas, is Bitter Truth, a Pity 'tis 'tis True.
The Which said Half Too Chunk of Stone the Injured Lady threw

WHICH shows that Leaving Trouble quite Religiously Alone
Beats all Known Ways of Keeping us from Troubles of our own.
